

City of Loveland

Youth Advisory Commission
503 N. Lincoln
Loveland, CO 80537
970-962-2562

City of Loveland
Youth Advisory Commission

NOTICE for October 19, 2010

Pulliam Building, 7:00 – 8:30 pm

Political Education Night Event by Loveland Youth Advisory Commission

The City of Loveland Youth Advisory Commission will hold a Political Education Night to educate teens and adults on local ballot issues and candidates at the Pulliam Building from 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm on Tuesday, October 19.

A goal of the Youth Advisory Commission is to provide opportunities for all local youth to connect with government. The Political Education event is intended to provide youth with information pertaining to the current election year and allow them to ask questions and gain knowledge on local issues and candidate platforms. Students can attend to learn about congressional and local candidates, ballot issues and other important election information.

This event is open to students who would like to learn more about this year's election. Parents are also welcome to attend. You do not have to be a registered voter or of voting age to attend.

The Loveland Youth Advisory Commission is an official board of 12 teens created to advise City Council on issues concerning youth and young adults in the Loveland community. As representatives of their peers, YAC commissioners strive to improve the community for young people and serve as their connection to city government.

For more information on the Youth Advisory Commission or the Political Education Night, please contact Jenni Dobson at 970-962-2562.