18. Roof configuration: Hipped Roof
19. Primary external roof material: Asphalt Roof / Composition Roof
20. Special features: Porches, Chimneys

21. General architectural description:

This single-story brick fourplex residential building measures 53’ N-S x 29½’ E-W. It rests on a low painted grey poured concrete foundation, with a bulkhead cellar entrance at the north end of the west-facing wall. The exterior walls are made of red brick laid in running bond. The building is covered by a moderately-pitched hipped roof, covered with brown asphalt composition shingles. Painted green rafter ends, covered by a fascia board, are exposed beneath the eaves. Short brick chimneys are on the north and south-facing roof slopes.

The building’s symmetrical façade faces east toward Monroe Avenue, and contains four entries addressed as 761, 763, 765, and 767 N. Monroe Avenue. The entry into 761 is recessed under the corner of the roof eave at the south end of the façade. Here, a stained brown wood-paneled door, with three upper sash lights, and covered by a silver metal storm door, enters into the unit from a small open wood porch. This porch is approached by three wood steps and features a tongue-in-groove wood floor, a painted green wood railing with decorative diamond-shaped cutouts, and a red brick pillar that supports the corner of the roof eave. Two stained brown wood-paneled doors, each with three upper sash lights, respectively enter into the units addressed as 763 and 765 from a common gable-roofed porch at the center of the façade. The entry door into the unit addressed as 763 is covered by a metal storm door; the entry door into unit addressed as 765 does not have a storm door. This porch is approached by three wood steps at its north and south ends, and features a tongue-in-groove wood floor, a painted green wood railing with decorative diamond-shaped cutouts, and two brick pillars that support the gable porch roof. The gable end of the porch roof is stuccoed with painted green false half-timbering. The entry into 767 is recessed under the corner of the roof eave at the north end of the façade. Here, a stained brown wood-paneled door with three upper sash lights enters into the unit from a small open wood porch. This porch is approached by three wood steps and features a tongue-in-groove wood floor, a painted green wood railing with decorative diamond-shaped cutouts, and a red brick pillar that supports the corner of the roof eave. The building's windows are predominantly single-hung and double-hung sash, typically with either six or eight upper sash panes over a single lower sash pane. The windows have painted white wood frames and surrounds and red brick rowlock sills.

22. Architectural style/building type: Late 19th and Early 20th Century American Movements

23. Landscaping or special setting features:

This brick fourplex, and an adjacent brick fourplex to the south are located on the west side of the 700 block of N. Monroe Avenue in the primarily residential neighborhood northeast of downtown Loveland. The two properties feature planted grass front yards. A concrete-paved public sidewalk parallels the curb along Monroe Avenue. An east-west trending gravel alley extends along the south side of the adjacent fourplex. A gravel driveway extends along the north side of this fourplex leading to a small rear parking area. The area between the two buildings is landscaped with cedar and spruce trees.

24. Associated buildings, features, or objects:

Fourplex next door to south at 753, 755, 757, 759 N. Monroe Avenue (5LR.14733)

IV. ARCHITECTURAL HISTORY

29. Construction history (include description and dates of major additions, alterations, or demolitions):

Larimer County Assessor records, Loveland city directories, and Sanborn Insurance maps reveal that the two brick fourplex residences at 753-759 and 761-767 N. Monroe Avenue were built in 1920. The property's addresses are not listed in the 1919 Loveland city directory; however, they do appear in the next available 1922 directory. The two buildings are depicted on Sanborn Insurance maps published in August 1927, July 1937, and September 1946. Earlier Sanborn maps do not depict this block. There are no additions, and no notable exterior alterations to their original construction. No building permits related to either building were located on file with the City of Loveland.

39. Area(s) of significance: Architecture
40. Period of significance: 1920 - 1970
41. Level of significance: Local

42. Statement of significance:

This building is architecturally significant for its vernacular form, its high-quality brick wall construction, and because it is among Loveland's earliest multi-unit dwellings. The building is also historically significant for its association with residential development in Loveland. Individuals who lived in the building, including several who worked for the Great Western Sugar Company, reflect Loveland's socioeconomic development through the years. The building's level of historical and architectural significance is not to the extent that it qualifies for individual listing in the National Register of Historic Places or in the State Register of Historic Properties. The property is eligible for local landmark designation by the City of Loveland, and it would qualify as a contributing resource within a locally-designated historic district.

43. Assessment of historic physical integrity related to significance:

This building displays an overall high level of physical integrity, relative to the seven aspects of integrity as defined by the National Park Service and the Colorado Historical Society - setting, location, design, materials, workmanship, feeling and association. There are no additions and no notable exterior alterations to the original construction. A sense of time and place relative to how the building appeared when originally built and as it existed through the end of the 1960s remains intact.

VII. NATIONAL REGISTER ELIGIBILITY ASSESSMENT

44. National Register eligibility assessment: Not Individually Eligible
State Register eligibility assessment: Not Individually Eligible
Local Landmark eligibility assessment: Eligible

45. Is there National Register district potential? Yes

Discuss: Historic properties in this primarily residential neighborhood east of downtown Loveland have the potential to form a historic district. More broadly, Loveland's east side neighborhoods, lying west and southwest of the former Great Western Sugar Company property have the potential to form one or more historic districts. This area is generally bordered by Jefferson Street on the west, 4th Street on the south, 13th Street on the north, and Monroe and Pierce Avenues on the east.

If there is N.R. district potential, is this building contributing or noncontributing? Contributing

46. If the building is in an existing N.R. district, is it contributing or noncontributing? N/A
