Victim Services Survey

<https://www.lovgov.org/victimsurvey>

Victims of the crimes specified within the Victim Rights Act (VRA) have the right to:

- Be treated with fairness, respect and dignity and to be free from intimidation, harassment and abuse;
- To be present at specified critical stages in the criminal justice process
- Information on all charges filed and assurance of swift and fair resolution of the proceeding;
- Notification of any change in the status of the accused;
- Input into decisions regarding plea bargains, dismissals, or other dispositions, sentencing and parole hearings;
- Be informed about eligibility for state crime compensation or financial support, where applicable;
- Restitution or civil remedy;
- Timely notification of all court dates;
- Notification of all case dispositions or appeals;
- Instruction on community resources and other information that will assist recovery;
- Be informed about steps to take if he/she is subjected to intimidation or harassment;
- To be informed of the existence of a criminal protection order, and upon the request of the victim, the procedure for modifying the protection order;
- To be provided with appropriate employer intercession services.

If a victim is deceased or incapacitated, these rights may be exercised by the victim's spouse, parent, child, sibling, grandparent, grandchild, significant other, or other lawful representation.

Victim Notification Program Colorado VINE

If you are a victim of one of the Victim Rights Amendment (VRA) crimes, you will be registered to receive notifications of an arrest, release, or a change in the status of the offender using the VINE (Victim Information & Notification Everyday) Program. These notifications can be in the form of phone calls, email, text and/or TTY and can be accessed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

While Colorado VINE is meant to protect you, don't rely solely on Colorado VINE for your safety. If you feel you might be at risk, take precautions as if the offender has been released.

It is your responsibility to update the VINE system with any change in your phone number or email address.

Critical Stages

Victims have the right to be heard at all critical stages. The following are Critical Stages in the criminal justice process and are designated in the Crime Victim Rights Act. Some these events may not happen in your case.

- Decisions to file or not file charges
- Preliminary Hearing
- Bond Reduction or Modification of Bond Arraignment
- Motions Hearing
- Disposition
- Trial
- Sentencing or Modification of Sentence
- Appellate Review
- Post-Conviction DNA Testing
- Sentence Reconsideration
- Probation Revocation
- Attack of Judgement
- Subpoenas for victim's records (medical, mental, education or victim compensation)

A victim also has the right to be heard at a hearing on bond reduction, acceptance of a negotiated plea, sentencing, and modification of sentence.

The Colorado Address Confidentiality Program (ACP) is a statewide program that provides survivors of stalking, sexual assault, and domestic violence with a legal substitute address and mail forwarding. Please contact the LPD Victim Services Unit for additional information.

When a traumatic incident occurs...

Victims and witnesses often feel alone, isolated, or helpless. Some normal reactions you may experience are:

- Shock and disbelief
- Denial
- Depression and anger
- Confusion and numbness
- Problems with trusting others
- Mood swings
- Inability to sleep
- Changes in appetite
- Other physical/emotional changes

Crisis Intervention and Follow-Up

Advocates can assist you in sorting through the confusing feelings you may be experiencing. An advocate can also help you regain control by helping you manage one problem at a time.

Resources and Referral

Your community is here for you and there are many resources available. Advocates can contact these resources for you or give you their contact information.

Advocacy and Practical Help

We want you to ask questions if you don't understand the terms used by law enforcement officers, or what stages normally occur in the investigation and prosecution of a criminal case.

Crime Victim Compensation

A victim may be eligible to apply for compensation for costs related to:

- Medical Expenses
- Mental Health Counseling
- Burial Expenses
- Eyeglasses, hearing aids, and other prosthetic or medically necessary devices
- Replacement of doors, locks, and windows of a residential home damaged during the commission of a crime
- Loss of earning or support to dependents

For Your Protection

If you feel that you are in immediate danger at any time, call 911. Also available are:

Mandatory Protection Order: May be issued by the court at the defendant's first appearance. This order restrains a person from harassing, molesting, intimidating, retaliating against or tampering with a witness or victim of a crime and remains in effect until the final disposition of the case, completion of sentence or acquittal.

No Contact Order: This is a condition that may be included on a standard Protection Order in cases involving domestic violence and certain cases involving crimes against persons. The defendant may be required to comply with certain provisions the court thinks is appropriate to protect the safety of the victim.

Modification of a Protection Order: The protected party may request to "modify" (change) the Protection Order if they believe the order is too broad or burdensome.

Civil Protection Orders: May be requested from the court in a separate civil action. Learn more at www.larimer.org/da/vicwit/safety.

If you have questions regarding any of the above orders, please contact the 8th Judicial District Attorney's Office at 970.498.7200.

Extra Patrol: A victim may ask for officers to drive by their residence or work place during their shifts, between other calls. While doing this, officers will look for suspicious activity. To request extra patrol, call the Loveland Police Department at 970.667.2151.

Victim Services: We can also provide advocacy with landlords and employers, as well as referrals for other services available for your protection. Call Victim Services at 970.962.2217.
